

Description

The “corporate heritage and archival studies” workshop introduces students to corporate archives as valuable tools for understanding the history of Italian entrepreneurship and the country’s economic and social development.

Through documents, projects and real archival collections, young “archive explorers” will discover the historical archives of MAIRE Group companies, analyse both physical and digital materials, reconstruct business stories and create a classroom mini-archive.

Methodology

The programme introduces students to the fundamental principles of archival science and to the value of documents as historical sources. Activities include consulting and analysing materials from the physical and digital archives of MAIRE Group companies.

Objectives

- Discover what an archive is and understand its value.
- Learn how to read, interpret and enhance documentary sources.
- Develop critical thinking, teamwork and digital skills.
- Take a journey between past and future by exploring the stories preserved within historical documents.
